In response to applicant's filing dated April 05, 2006. The following action is taken:

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5, 7 and 11-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by McFarlane et al (4488277).

The reference shows an optical disk reading and recording apparatus comprising: a disk with information layer 9, a radiation source to read and write data 1, an objective system for focusing and splitting the light beam into a read beam 24 and write beam 25 using element 2 and 3.

With respect to the limitation of claim 2, the read and the write beams 24 and 25 are focused on different locations on the disk 9.

With respect to the limitation of claim 3, since the reference is not drawn to simultaneously reading and writing data on the information layer. The reference is drawn to reading or writing data on the disk, therefore when data is being read by the system, the write beam is obsolete and have none-sufficient energy to effect the data.

With respect to the limitation of claim 5. The limitation "reshape" read on element 24 reshaping the direction of the beam 24.

With respect to the limitation of claim 7. The claim read on the inherent focusing lens control as shown by element 13.

With respect to the limitations of claims 11, 13 and 14. The reference is drawn to an optical disk reading and recording system.

Claims 4, 6, 8-10, are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the cited prior art shows or teaches an optical disk reading and recording apparatus wherein when the read and write beams are in use the read and write beams produce two focusing error signals. Nor reshaping the read beam rim in order to improve the intensity. The reference does not disclose the use of a birefringent grating element to split the light beam into a read and write beams.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. 5105407 and 6097677.
